DON'T FORGET MOMS – A FOGSI INITIATIVE

DON'T FORGET
MOMS

Greetings!

September was an incredible month for Manyata. We formed new partnerships, conducted multiple assessments, added new members to the Manyata family and championed the program at national and international platforms.

Our expert this month, Dr. Nandita Palshetkar, President, FOGSI talks about how FOGSI is walking the talk and leading quality care efforts across private maternity facilities. We also detail the various events, announcements and updates from the program for your perusal.

Hope you enjoy reading it!

ON THE FRONT LINES – FOGSI LEADING QUALITY CARE EFFORTS IN PRIVATE MATERNITY FACILITIES

Over the past decade, India has made commendable strides in addressing maternal mortality in the country – however, we still contribute significantly to the global burden of maternal deaths. This is because, in India, inequities in access to skilled health workers pose an inherent bottleneck in providing quality care and delivering an effective healthcare system in India.

FOGSI is deeply committed to improving women's health outcomes by creating or supporting initiatives that improve access, coverage, quality, or efficiency of the care that women receive – programs that can integrate quality care into the healthcare ecosystem and strengthen health systems overall. We strongly believe in the value of collaboration and partnerships in the pursuit of these goals.

It is for this reason that FOGSI joined hands with the Government of Maharashtra on September 8, 2019, to launch 'LaQshya-Manyata', a joint quality enhancement initiative for private maternity care providers, to be rolled out in all districts of Maharashtra.

LaQshya-Manyata is a giant leap forward in advancing maternal healthcare outcomes in the state of Maharashtra. By addressing quality care in the private sector, the program complements other public sector efforts towards building a holistic health system. The goal of this initiative is to reduce preventable maternal deaths in every district of Maharashtra, particularly semi-urban areas, through a strong network of ob-gyn societies as well as the National Health Mission.

It is an extremely opportune time for this partnership. Maharashtra is a progressive state, and since it has positioned itself as a leader in the quality care movement for private facilities, other states are more likely to emulate its model and become part of the nationwide movement to provide quality maternal care – so that every woman receives the care she deserves, wherever she chooses to go.

Announcing ‘LaQshya-Manyata’, a joint initiative by Government of Maharashtra & FOGSI I 8th September, 2019

The Hon’ble Minister for Health, Maharashtra, Eknath Shinde & FOGSI President Dr. Nandita Palshetkar launched the program on September 8th in Pune. In attendance were prominent state government officials, the FOGSI leadership & MSD for Mothers.

Manyata has achieved an important milestone in its pursuit to benchmark quality care for mothers in India. The Maharashtra State Health Department has partnered with FOGSI to launch ‘LaQshya-Manyata’, a quality improvement program for private maternity care facilities, to be rolled out in every district of the state.

LaQshya-Manyata is poised to step up the momentum for quality care in Maharashtra by helping to improve and standardize quality of care for private providers, particularly those who cater to women in low and middle-income areas. Providing equitable and inclusive healthcare, the program will also ensure consistent, safe and respectful care for mothers, during and after childbirth.

Dhanbad CSE Launch I 26th September, 2019

RC Hazra Memorial Hospital, Dhanbad was officially launched as the first Centre for Skill Enhancement (CSE) in the state of Jharkhand. CSEs are dedicated training management centers to help scale Manyata. They are a critical learning platform for Manyata standards, skill drills & Project ECHO sessions.

On September 17, 2019, the World Health Organization (WHO) observed the first ever World Patient Safety Day.

"At least 5 people die every minute due to unsafe care globally" WHO Director-General Tedros Adhanom Ghebreyesus. WHO, therefore, globally escalated the issue of patient safety and quality of care, stressing the importance of standardizing procedures, training healthcare workers, and ensuring a safe and clean environment for patients.

The first World Patient Safety Day was also a celebration of Manyata for us, whose foremost priority is to address preventable maternal and neonatal complications. Patient safety is at the heart of Manyata, which ensures safety and quality in patient care through standardizing quality care protocols, empowering frontline healthcare providers, and investing in innovative quality enhancement methods.

Link Between Maternal health and NCDs

Summary: Women who suffer from gestational diabetes, pre-eclampsia, hypertension or placental complications are at a substantially greater risk of developing long-term non-communicable diseases (NCDs), such as cardiovascular disease or Type 2 diabetes. FIGO has released a new supplement in the International Journal of Gynaecology and Obstetrics (IJGO) focusing on the critical importance of postpartum follow-up care for women who have faced complications during pregnancy.
